

Is a slow 100Mbps fiber optic connection a router problem

Overview

Old routers might not handle the speeds that new fiber-optic systems offer. I tested this cable without router and get 300mbps in my desktop, but when I connect the cable in my router, the lan and wifi connections are limited to 100mbps. Some internet service providers (ISPs) may intentionally slow down — or "throttle" — your connection in certain conditions, such as peak times, after your data limits have been exceeded or when you visit certain websites. What I have done troubleshooting for the wifi connection so far: Changing the channels and bandwidth. As stated before, highest was 350 download which is still way lower than what it.
